Ranko Stefanovic is professor of New Testament at the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary at Andrews University in Michigan. He holds a PhD degree from Andrews University and is a well-loved teacher, popular speaker, and author of scholarly articles.

Plain Revelation

Ranko Stefanovic

In today's world, no other part of the Bible inspires so much interest, speculation, sensationalism, and confusion as the book of Revelation. This seems strange for a book that claims to be a revelation of Jesus Christ, but it doesn't need to be that way. In this concise reader's introduction, Revelation expert Dr. Ranko Stefanovic makes it all plain and simple. In a straight-forward, no nonsense way, the author leads us scene by scene through this amazing panorama of cosmic war and glory. Through it all, we see the astounding picture of a Creator God who wins it all with justice and love as Jesus Christ is plainly revealed as King of Kings and Lord of Lords.

"Aunque todos los libros de la Biblia fueron inspirados por Dios, ningún otro libro de las Sagradas Escrituras presenta a Jesucristo como su autor, ni muestra el futuro como lo hace el Apocalipsis. En esta versión abreviada de su comentario del libro del Apocalipsis, el Dr. Stefanovic transmite con fluidez y claridad los conceptos principales de su obra original. Este libro debiera ser leído por todos aquellos que vivimos en la undécima hora de la historia de nuestro planeta."

The Genesis Creation Account and Its Reverberations in the Old Testament

Edited by Gerald A. Klingbeil

Asking the question, “Do the various biblical authors portray creation theologies that align or diverge with each other, particularly with the creation account in Genesis?” ten scholars collectively discover that the weight of the textual data clearly portrays an overarching understanding and theology of creation that permeates every biblical genre and book. Because creation theology clarifies God’s purpose in the human experience, their findings are an informative source of wisdom for Christians.

Earthly Shadows Heavenly Realities

Temple/Sanctuary Cosmology in Ancient Near Eastern, Biblical, and Early Jewish Literature

Edited by Kim Papaioannou and Ioannis Giantzaklidis

With a focus on the relation between the heavenly temple and its earthly counterpart, this book provides descriptions of the features and functions of the heavenly pattern, and examines the use of temple language in ancient Near Eastern literature, the Old Testament, the inter-testamental corpus, and the New Testament, as it forms a core part of rich biblical imagery.

Homosexuality, Marriage, and the Church

Biblical, Counseling, and Religious Liberty Issues

Edited by Roy E. Gane, Nicholas P. Miller,
and H. Peter Swanson

In this volume, Christian scholars offer a deep resource of material to untangle the complex web of questions surrounding this contested topic. They first provide a frank and rigorous explication of the Bible's clear teaching. Then they lay out the implications for counseling and for the religious liberty of the church and its members. Finally, they make an impassioned call for love and care for those who are being misled into a walk down a dangerous path.

Servants and Friends

A Biblical Theology of Leadership

Edited by Skip Bell

Against the chatter of pop psychology and the latest list of must-have motivational habits, twenty Bible scholars and ministry professionals thoughtfully grapple with what the Scriptures, in their totality, actually have to teach us about the essence of true leadership. In Servants and Friends, Skip Bell and his team examine and correlate the breadth of evidence in the Old and New Testaments. They trace the nature of God's intent and bring it all together in a fresh and challenging theological understanding that may radically alter what we have thought leadership really is.

Judging the Sabbath

Discovering What Can't Be Found in
 Colossians 2:16

Ron du Preez

Sabbatarians have argued for centuries that the “sabbath” of Colossians 2:16 refers to the Jewish ceremonial sabbaths, and not the Decalogue Sabbath, based on a plain-sense reading of the context. In a wide-ranging engagement with Scripture, du Preez considers relevant exegetical, linguistic, structural, syntactical, and intertextual factors that could be used to support them. In the process, he finds the evidence pointing forcefully against the traditional interpretation.

The Lost Meaning of the Seventh Day

Sigve K. Tonstad

Sigve K. Tonstad recovers the profound and foundational understanding of God that can be experienced in the seventh day. He shows that Scripture has consistently asserted that the Sabbath of Creation is the Sabbath of the whole story of how God makes right what has gone wrong in the world. This sweeping work of biblical theology and historical analysis traces the seventh day as it is woven throughout Scripture and the history of Christianity.

“Sigve Tonstad’s wide-ranging study of biblical teaching about the Sabbath offers fresh, provocative readings of texts from across the entirety of the canon, while constantly engaging the best recent scholarship. The result is a luminous, deeply encouraging book that beckons readers to understand the seventh day as a celebration of God’s gracious work of creation and God’s faithful intent to restore and heal all that is broken.” –Richard B. Hays, George Washington Ivey Professor of New Testament, The Divinity School, Duke University

“Usually I have trouble reading for a long period such massive tomes as this, but Tonstad’s writing is so stimulating that I couldn’t put the book down! Tonstad is a master of both biblical exegesis and historical scholarship. I heartily recommend this book to all who love God and the Sabbath Day and to all who yearn to grow in that love.” –Marva J. Dawn, author of Keeping the Sabbath Wholly and In the Beginning GOD; former Teaching Fellow in Spiritual Theology, Regent College

What the Old and New Covenants
Reveal about the Gospel, the Law, and the Sabbath

Skip MacCarty

Popular claims about the old and new covenants have diminished the gospel and narrowed the faith and spiritual life of millions of Christians. Those claims have introduced confusion about what it truly means to “keep the commandments of God and the faith of Jesus.” Christians earnest in their walk with the Lord will see a dynamic element of the gospel in the profound relationship between love and law. They will understand the apparent dichotomy of old and new covenants in the New Testament and, in the process, will be confronted with a powerful appeal and an unmistakable warning. A study guide is available.

“MacCarty invites his readers to celebrate with him the glorious fact that in the old covenant, as much as in the new covenant, God offers a ‘grace-based, gospel-bearing, and mission-directed’ covenantal relationship with Himself. Until Christians grasp this message, the Old Testament will remain a dead book to the church.” –Daniel I. Block, professor of Old Testament, Wheaton College

Norman R. Gulley is Research Professor of Systematic Theology at Southern Adventist University in Tennessee and holds a PhD degree in systematic theology from The University of Edinburgh, Scotland.

Systematic Theology

The Church and the Last Things (Vol. 4)

Norman R. Gulley

Norman Gulley examines the doctrines of ecclesiology and eschatology within the theological framework of the cosmic conflict between Christ and Satan. He critiques some of the traditional answers to crucial and controversial questions about God's church through his interpretive framework of Scripture.

The Bible refers to a coming tribulation, and this work examines how it can be understood and survived. Gulley surveys and critically examines various approaches to prophetic eschatology that have been held throughout Christian history, including their related views regarding the return of Christ. He builds his eschatological outlook on a historicist approach, with biblical prophecy being fulfilled throughout Christian history and into the future.

"Gulley's bold and frank assertions about the papacy in the Scriptures (the books of Daniel and Revelation) and Christian history challenge readers of every faith community—whether scholar, pastor, priest, or layperson—with forceful biblical reasoning, which cannot be easily dismissed. It is a landmark systematic theology in the Protestant tradition—forceful and cutting-edge." –Larry L. Lichtenwalter, Dean of the Faculty of Philosophy and Theology, Middle East University, Beirut, Lebanon

Prolegomena (Vol. 1)

Norman R. Gulley

“Norman Gulley’s Prolegomena is an encyclopedic introduction to systematic theology that is philosophically penetrating, historically informed, and biblically faithful...it is particularly relevant to the challenges and opportunities presented by the postmodern world.” –Bruce Demarest, Senior Professor of Christian Theology and Spiritual Formation, Denver Seminary, Littleton, Colorado

Systematic Theology

God As Trinity (Vol. 2)

Norman R. Gulley

Throughout this volume God is seen in an eternal relationship as a relational Trinity—His nature being love and all His attributes compatible with His nature. This God of love is found in His self-revelation in Scripture, which remedies the traditional distortions about Him.

Systematic Theology

Creation, Christ, Salvation (Vol. 3)

Norman R. Gulley

Focusing on the doctrines of creation, Christ, and salvation, Gulley drives home his theme that “Jesus Christ is the same yesterday and today and forever” (Heb. 13:8), which impacts creation and salvation. This focus on Christ has profound implications for our understanding of origins and our relationship to the Word of God.

What does it mean to sin? What is temptation? What is the law? What does it mean to “be saved”? What does it mean to “be perfect”? George Knight recalls his own early struggles with legalism in order to examine some of the most basic questions about salvation.

Special features of this second edition include study questions at the end of each chapter, reference notes to sources, and topical and scripture indexes.

Our Creator Redeemer

An Introduction to Biblical Covenant Theology

Hans K. LaRondelle

How do we align concerns about the place of the Ten Commandments in the public square with a message that often seems to stress that those same commandments have been nailed to the cross? Hans LaRondelle traces through salvation history the footsteps of the Creator Redeemer in progressively revealing His covenant promises and His judgments. From a “redemption-historical” perspective, based on careful exegesis, the author outlines the unity and continuity of God’s covenants with His chosen people.

Ellen G. White was a woman of remarkable spiritual gifts who lived most of her life during the nineteenth century (1827–1915), yet through her writings she is still making a life-changing impact on millions of people around the world. She is the most translated woman writer in the entire history of literature.

Christ's Object Lessons

Ellen G. White

As the first in the “Inspirational Classics” series, this book is a Christian literary classic and perhaps the most widely circulated devotional treatment of Christ’s parables ever published. This new edition presents an original typeset in a time-honored form of book design and manufacture. The illustrations are selected from classic artistic treatments of the parables throughout art history, or are works with imagery that correlates with the theme of a particular parable. Generations of readers have found Christ's Object Lessons and all of Ellen G. White’s writings unparalleled for their profound biblical literacy, depth of insight, simplicity of expression, and spiritual power.

This classic edition is ideal for anyone who appreciates a book that is beautiful in every way:

- comfortable hand-sized dimensions
- high-quality cloth-cover binding
- classic, highly readable type design
- beautiful foil stamping
- elegant gilded edging
- full-color reproductions of classic works of art

Steps to Christ

With Historical
Introduction and Notes
by Denis Fortin

Ellen G. White

The second volume in the Inspirational Classics series, this book features the enduring Christian literary classic Steps to Christ by Ellen G. White, which has been translated into approximately 160 languages since its first publication in 1892. It is the most widely read work of its author, whose prolific literary productions are recognized as significant contributions to Christian literature of the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries.

The publication of this landmark 125th anniversary annotated edition of Steps to Christ was specifically designed to coincide with the 500th anniversary of one of the most important events in the history of Western civilization. In the autumn of 1517, Martin Luther first disseminated the Ninety-Five Theses—an ardent remonstrance against the abuses and errors of the church of his time.

This special edition includes a historical and theological introduction giving a brief history of the book. Each chapter has a brief introduction, which includes a list of recommended further reading and a description of the antecedents of that chapter. Each chapter also has annotations to clarify or expand some of the thoughts expressed in the chapter. A helpful appendix cross-references Ellen White's other writings.

Calvin B. Rock (PhD, DMin, Religious Ethics, Vanderbilt University) is a former Vice President of the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists. Prior to that he was President of Oakwood University. He has authored eight books, drawing on his more than six decades of professional ministry.

Protest & Progress

Black Seventh-day Adventist Leadership and the Push for Parity
Calvin B. Rock

Calvin B. Rock's landmark work examines the major nineteenth- and twentieth-century endeavors of Black Seventh-day Adventist leadership to achieve equality within the Seventh-day Adventist Church. In exploring the legacy of protest, Rock divides the historic protest movements of Black leadership into four categories: the push for social and administrative participation, the push for Regional conferences, the push for Black unions, and the push for equitable retirement security.

Interwoven into Rock's work is an examination of the circumstances that shaped each movement in various ways, as well as an encompassing argument that each movement shared the same ultimate goal—that of human dignity and the fulfillment of the gospel mission. Protest and Progress speaks to how Black Adventists achieved these ends and how their efforts were linked across the years. This book is a must-read to understand this revealing and key element of Adventist history.

Questions on Doctrine

Annotated Edition

Notes with Historical and Theological Introduction by George R. Knight

This monumental 1957 classic, originally produced by the Ministerial Association of the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists, was widely acclaimed and distributed in the late 1950s and early 1960s as a forthright answer to questions from evangelicals about key elements of Adventist doctrine. Controversy regarding the book's position on the nature of Christ and the atonement soon stopped its circulation. George Knight provides the background for how the book came about and describes the interaction of the principal players involved in the crisis that shelved this classic work for more than a generation.

Life Incidents

James White

Introduction by Jerry Moon

This autobiographical work, by 47-year-old James White, describes his early experience in becoming part of the Millerite movement and developing the Sabbatarian branch of that movement, beginning in the mid-1840s. The scholar's introduction provides background and context to this important personal insight into a giant of Adventism in the 19th century.

Faith, Reason, and Earth History, 3rd ed.

A Paradigm of Earth and Biological Origins by Intelligent Design

Leonard Brand and
Arthur Chadwick

This volume presents an argument for constructive thinking about origins and earth history in the context of Scripture, showing readers how to analyze available scientific data and approach unsolved problems. Faith does not need to fear the data, but can contribute to progress in understanding earth history within the context of God's Word while still being honest about unanswered questions.

This fully updated third edition includes additional contributions from joint author Arthur Chadwick. In this patient explanation of the mission of science and its application to questions about origins and earth history, the authors model their conviction that "above all, it is essential that we treat each other with respect, even if we disagree on fundamental issues."

The original edition of this work (1997) was one of the first books on this topic written from the point of view of an experienced research scientist. A career biologist, paleontologist, and teacher, Brand brings to this well-illustrated book a rich assortment of practical scientific examples.

This thoughtful and rigorous presentation makes this landmark work highly useful both as a college-level text and as an easily accessible treatment for the educated lay person.

Scriptural Foundations Series

Scriptural Foundations for Management

Michael E. Cafferky

Management—when seeking to guide and serve others—is an honorable endeavor for a committed Christian.

A Christian manager serves God by serving others, making choices consistent with God's principles, and implementing standards of good practice.

Scriptural Foundations for Marketing

Bruce Wrenn; Harwood Hoover, Jr.;
and Jacquelyn Warwick

Marketing—when seeking to meet the needs of others—is an honorable endeavor for a committed Christian.

Marketing can contribute to an organization and society when God's Word guides the practice.

Scriptural Foundations for Microeconomics

Harwood Hoover, Jr.

Microeconomics—when seeking to understand market forces for the benefit of others—is an honorable area of study for a committed Christian. In making market decisions based on supply, demand, profit maximization, and market structures, a Christian businessperson uses Gospel values as a guide toward moral choices.

Biology

A Seventh-day Adventist Approach for Students and Teachers

Edited by H. Thomas Goodwin

Contributing authors examine a variety of evidence, addressing issues of biology in light of a biblical worldview. This book invites readers to explore the connections between scientific investigation and the beliefs of the Seventh-day Adventist Church. The authors go beyond the creation-evolution debate to interact with such subjects as the fossil record, ecology and stewardship, the biology of human nature, and the human genome.

Educating for Eternity

A Seventh-day Adventist
Philosophy of Education

George R. Knight

George Knight returns to one of his life-long passions—Adventist educational philosophy. Writing both for the educated layperson and the professional educator, he begins by laying the groundwork of basic philosophic understandings as they relate to education. Building on this, he then structures his main argument for the active, intentional, redemptive purpose of Adventist education. It is a bracing, inspiring, and invigorating reminder of what serious Adventists must demand from their schools—and from their educators.

“In this pithy, to-the-point book, Knight has encapsulated the value, function, and goals of Adventist education. It’s a must-read for every school-board member, teacher, administrator, and pastor. Knight states candidly and poignantly that any Adventist school, teacher, or curriculum that is not distinctly Adventist is a redundancy unneeded in today’s educational landscape. He stresses that we must recapture—in every classroom—the reason we exist: to restore our children into the image of our Creator.”
—Larry Blackmer, EdD, Vice President for Education,
North American Division of Seventh-day Adventists

An Introduction in Christian Perspective

George R. Knight

Philosophy and Education has been a classic in its field for more than a quarter of a century. Features of this edition make it of even greater usefulness in the educational philosophy classrooms. They include a new chapter on the Christian teacher in the public school setting, discussions regarding the rise of the home school movement and the relation of the Intelligent Design debate to Christian educational philosophy, and “Points to Ponder” study questions.

Issues and Alternatives in Educational Philosophy, 4th ed.

George R. Knight

As a survey of philosophic issues relevant to the educational profession, this book highlights the relationship between theory and practice. It is suited to fit the needs of undergraduate survey courses in educational philosophy, graduate students who need a quick review of the topic, and teachers of educational philosophy who want their students to spend maximum time in primary sources while utilizing a comprehensive survey text for orientation and overview.

The Madaba Plains Project series reports on seasonal findings from the excavations at Tall al-'Umayri and vicinity conducted by a consortium of colleges and universities including Andrews University. In its field reports and descriptions of the various seasons, this series provides analyses of such aspects as the food and water systems, sedentarization, nomadization, ancient environment, and ceramic and small finds.

The Hesban series reports on anthropological and archaeological findings gleaned from the site of Tell Hesban, Jordan, during five seasons of excavation. Sponsored principally by Andrews University, the Hesban Expedition received international recognition as the first regional project in Jordan. Each volume of this series describes a specific aspect of the excavation and has been authored by one or more specialists in the subject.

Sutherland House

Originally named Brooknook because of its vantage point overlooking Lemon Creek, a tributary of the St. Joseph River, Sutherland House was built in 1902. It was the first building erected on the Andrews University campus when the institution, then known as Battle Creek College, was moved to Berrien Springs, Michigan, and renamed Emmanuel Missionary College in the fall of 1901. The spacious two-story structure was built as the home for the school's president, Edward A. Sutherland, and was later used variously through the years since as a women's residence, infirmary, and housing for married students. By the early 1980s it was in a very poor condition and was slated for demolition. A University Trustee, Elsie L. Buck, persuaded her colleagues to save the building. Mrs. Buck raised the funds necessary for a complete renovation, and the house re-opened in 1987 as the headquarters for the Institute of World Mission. When that organization moved to new quarters in the Seminary building, Sutherland House, with the addition of a new "carriage house" that serves as the warehouse, became the home of Andrews University Press in 2005.
